Nature Guidelines for Competition

Just a reminder: Club rules for nature photography state: Nature photography is defined as the use of the photographic process to depict a subject in its natural setting. Human elements should not be present. Zoo animals (no domesticated animals), as well as domesticated plants/flowers may be entered in nature categories, provided there is NO hand of man visible. This would include fencing, landscaping (mulch, mown grass, etc.), house siding, lattice, concrete, etc.. Nature images may now be used to interpret any category other than Open – No Nature.

SMALL amounts of digital manipulation are allowed in order to REMOVE hand of man objects. Nothing is allowed to be added to the image that was not already there. For instance, if you have a lovely scene, but there is a utility pole and line going through the image, you may remove that object and clone/copy the grass, sky, etc. that is already in close proximity. You may NOT move objects within an image for aesthetic purposes. Also, if you have a lovely scene, but the sky is overcast or dull, you may NOT add a beautiful blue, cloud-filled sky in its place.

Small amounts of REMOVAL are allowed. NO ADDITION is allowed.
